

Professor Masaki Hayashi carries out his activity in the Department of Geoscience in the University of Calgary in Canada.

The major topics of his current research are the following:

- Alpine hydrology in the Rockies
- Permafrost Hydrology in the Sub-Arctic
- Hydrology of Seasonally Frozen Soil
- Prairie Hydrology
- Hydrology of Banff Hot Springs

His research generally combines detailed field observation and experiments with mathematical analysis.

Contact: hayashi@ucalgary.ca

Personal link: <https://science.ucalgary.ca/geoscience/contacts/masaki-hayashi>